About the Longview Center for Agriculture

The Longview Center (formerly Willow Creek Orchards) will serve as a regional hub for agricultural education while providing an exciting venue for our community to connect with fresh, locally grown food. Consisting of 90 acres of certified organic farmland, the Center includes an organic fruit orchard and a vibrant, on-site Market, which highlights local food grown on our farm and by nearby farmers, and pick your own strawberries, blueberries, blackberries and vegetables.

The Longview Center will host weekly educational programs for children and adults on themes of sustainability, wellness, and life enrichment. Greener Partners will offer farm-based education programs for elementary schools (Seed to Snack®) in the area, and we will offer outreach opportunities to local school districts through the Center. The Longview Center will be a leader in agriculture training for the region, providing training programs to a new generation of farmers through our First Generation Farmer Apprenticeship program.
